The draft began for Bethel men in October 1940, and a home guard, later affiliated with the State, was organized by the late Leslie Coburn. Numerous training classes were also held throughout the town, with instruction given in such topics as first aid and identification of enemy planes.

At the time the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor several Bethel men were serving with the armed forces in the Hawaiian Islands, and one, Stanley Allen, a Naval aviator stationed aboard the U. S. S. Oklahama, lost his life when it was

STRESS WORKSHOP

About 30 S. A. D. #44 High School and Middle School faculty members spent most of their service day on Monday, Nov. 10, talking, dancing, meditating and exercising their way toward a less stressful existence. The Stress Workshop was part of the district inservice program for professional and staff development and was sponsored by the School Health Education Program. All of the day's activities were organized and facilitated by Suzanne Taylor of the Telstar English Department and Sue Farrar, (left above) of the Dance Workshop in Bethel. Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Farrar interspersed quiet, reflective activities with vigorous spurts of jogging and aerobic dance. The goal of the program was not to solve individual stress programs, but to remind participants of the interrelationship of body and mind and to introduce them to some tools which they will be able to integrate into their daily lives and classroom experiences in order to deal more effectively with stressful situations.

In other Health Education news, the Community Health Education Committee will be meeting on Nov. 18 at 7:00 p. m. At that time the Committee will hear reports of the health education activities in the district schools during the current school year. The major portion of the meeting will be devoted to developing a budget proposal for the School Health Education Program for FY 82. For the past three years the program has been supported by a grant from the Maine Department of Human Services with supplementary funds from the district. The non-district funding will cease after June, 1981. The budget developed by the Health Education Committee will be submitted to the Board of Directors at the Dec. 15 meeting. If there are any community members who would like to have some input into the budget development process, please contact Mary Ann O'Connor at 824-2582.

M.D.O.T. SAYS PUBLIC CAN HELP IMPROVE SNOW REMOVAL EFFORTS

The Maine Department of Transportation is gearing up for another winter of removing snow from some 3,600 miles of Maine highways.

M.D.O.T. Maintenance and Operations Engineer Martin C. Rissel points out that there are a number of things the public can do to assist plow crews in providing a snow removal job acceptable to everyone.

—Do not drive in a winter storm unless absolutely necessary, especially during storms of wet snow or freezing rain.

—If a storm is anticipated, remove vehicles from the roadside shoulders. This allows plows to clear the area the first time through without having to return to clean it up later.

—Do not shovel snow or have your driveway plowed into the street. This is against state law and can be a serious traffic hazard. If possible, it is best to place snow on the side of your driveway opposite the direction from which the plow is coming. That way, the plow will carry snow away from your driveway rather than back into it.

—If possible, wait until the highway has been plowed before cleaning out the end of your driveway. There is no practical way to plow the highway without depositing snow into your driveway.

—Help reduce the possibility of a broken mailbox post. M.D.O.T. plow operators are warned to take all possible precautions to avoid hitting mailbox posts. However, experience has shown that with reduced visibility during a storm it is not always possible for a driver to see the post in time to avoid striking it with the wing of the plow. Any installation within the highway right-of-way, including a mailbox, is placed there at the owner's risk. Therefore, owners are encouraged to put mailboxes at the maximum useable distance from the roadway pavement. Posts should also be checked for deterioration such as rot to reduce the possibility of their being broken off simply by the weight of plowed snow.

—Be sure your car is properly equipped for winter driving (snow tires, good wiper blades, etc.).

—Avoid calling M.D.O.T. offices during a bad storm unless absolutely necessary. M.D.O.T. personnel are extremely busy doing everything possible to cope with storm situations and it is better to keep telephone lines open for emergency calls.

—Don't be misled by plow trucks riding with their plows up. They may be going in for fuel or repairs or be headed for another area. M.D.O.T. is not responsible for plowing all highways in the state; only for snow removal on so-called state highways. Local governments are responsible for plowing on state aid highways and town ways.

—Refer complaints about state aid highways and town ways directly to local officials. M.D.O.T. is responsible for clearing some 3,600 miles of state highway which requires the full attention of M.D.O.T. personnel and provides little or no time for relaying messages to town officials during storm situations.

Rissel says M.D.O.T. invites public cooperation in carrying out his suggestions. He also ensures citizens of M.D.O.T.'s desire to cause a minimum of inconvenience as winter maintenance duties are carried out.

Tony Butters spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Butters.

Individualized Language Arts is a federally validated writing program.

Through diagnosis of students' papers, techniques, and evaluation teachers lead students to writing longer, more varied sentences and paragraphs. The program emphasizes the experience-based writing assignment and the importance of students editing each others papers. Although there are many structural aspects to writing, ILLA teachers concentrate on one general grammatical improvement at a time. It is hoped that through the adoption or adaptation of this program, an improvement in students' writing will be seen.

Eleanor Botka has taught reading and English for 15 years in Maine and New Hampshire schools. She was trained in the ILLA program five years ago, and has since used the program effectively in her classroom.

FOOD STAMP NUTRITION EDUCATION TRAINING COMPLETED IN MAINE

More than 4,000 Maine and New Hampshire families have benefited from a nutrition education program sponsored by the United States Department of Agriculture. The USDA trained 400 people who counsel families using food stamps in ways to get the most value for their stamps.

Starting last spring, Ellen Garrahe, R. D., USDA's New England Regional Office, Burlington, Mass., conducted a series of training workshops in several counties — attracting home health aides, WIC, and CAP Staffers, area agencies on aging, Cooperative Extension Service aides (EFNEP), and others who were interested in teaching nutrition education to food stamp households.

Garrahe, in an attempt to tailor the presentation to the location of her session, goes to a local food store and buys according to USDA's Thrifty Food Plan for a family of four.

The current food stamp allotment averages 36 cents per person per meal.

Food Stamp families are eligible to meet in their homes with Extension nutrition aides and others who have been trained. Families — in addition to being taught food budgeting, meal planning, cooking skills, basic nutrition, food storage and preservation — will receive the colorful booklet, "Building a Better Diet."

Garrahe has pointed out that about 50% of all food stamp recipients are children under the age of 18 and another 20% are elderly. She is now continuing nutrition education efforts in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

Letters to the Editor

Western Avenue
South Paris, Maine
Nov. 8, 1980

To the Citizens of District 5:
I would like to thank all those who voted for me on Nov. 4 and in addition, to thank all those who helped with my re-election campaign. I think all of us can be proud of the turnout of Maine voters which was much higher than the National average.

I promise to do my best in representing the interests of the people of District 5 and to urge anyone who has a question or problem to contact me directly by phone or by letter, or to contact one of my Town Representatives who will then see that the information is brought to my attention.

As I said during my campaign, this will be a most difficult legislative session, not only for Maine but also for the country, and now it is time to get down to work. Again, I thank you all.

Sincerely,
Roland L. Sutton,
State Senator, District #5

To the Editor:
I want to thank you for the coverage you gave me in my recent campaign for the House Seat in District 63. I also want to thank the voters of Bethel and the surrounding towns that voted for me. As this is my first attempt at running for State office, I feel that I have learned some of the mistakes I made. I am in hopes to get acquainted in and around the Bethel area in the near future. I want to send a special thanks to the Bethel Town Democratic Committee for their help. Maybe the next two years will make a change in the feelings of some of your readers.

Sincerely,
Robert P. Perry

The Week in Washington

by Sen. George J. Mitchell

Veterans
This week the nation observes Veterans Day, paying tribute to the millions of Americans who have served their country in the armed forces.

It is a time to remember and commemorate these individuals who have given their lives defending the United States and its principles. There is no greater service one can give to this country, and to the free world, than to work to preserve the ideals and goals of our democracy. The people who have served in our armed forces deserve the highest respect and gratitude. I know I join millions of Americans in extending a tribute to them on Veterans Day.

This year marks the 50th anniversary of the Veterans Administration. The VA was established in 1930 to coordinate and administer the programs that were being administered by three agencies: the Veterans Bureau, the Bureau of Pensions of the Interior Department, and the National Homes for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers. In 1930, there were approximately 4.7 million veterans in the United States. Today there are approximately 30 million veterans.

The founding mission of the VA — to provide care for those who have served this country and their dependents — has not changed. 93 million veterans, veterans' dependents and survivors of deceased veterans are presently or potentially eligible for VA benefits or services. This is approximately 43% of America's total population.

This nation has been forced to go to war to defend its borders and preserve order at various times throughout our history. Care for veterans and dependents of veterans from these efforts spans decades.

Of the 392,000 participants in the Spanish-American War, some 150 are expected to be alive in 1980. The last dependent from the War of 1812 lived until 1946. Some Civil War widows and children still draw VA benefits. Care for Vietnam era dependents will surely be required into the 22nd century.

Maine was especially affected by the Vietnam War, with one of the highest death rates among the 50 states. Maine lost 327 men in the war—the tenth highest in the country—and now has more than 35,000 veterans from that conflict. Those veterans and their dependents benefit from a variety of services provided through the VA including among others: medical and dental treatment, educational opportunities, life insurance programs, loans, and vocational rehabilitation for the disabled and employment assistance.

The United States has been bravely and ably served by its veterans. As a former member of the armed forces, I am aware of the huge sacrifices many veterans have had to endure. Now, as one of Maine's representatives to Congress, I am determined to ensure that the country's veterans receive not only our tribute and gratitude, but our dedication to the cause for which they served—the protection and preservation of the United States.

Dr. Wayne F. Gersen

For the past three meetings of the Board of Directors, education for pre-school handicapped children has been a subject of considerable debate.

The issue of educating pre-school handicapped children was raised initially through action on a proposal by Cornerstones Nursery School in Norway. At the meeting of Oct. 6, Sue Ellen Myers, Director of Cornerstones, asked the Board to write a letter of support for Cornerstones, promising to provide $2,000 of in-kind support for the program. In the presentation, Ms. Myers outlined several of the factors which make a pre-school program like Cornerstones worthwhile:

—Early intervention with handicapped students often improves their skills to the extent that expensive special services in later years are unnecessary.

—Early identification of handicapped students helps the district plan its special education staffing, programming, and budgetary needs for the future.

—Participation in a program like Cornerstones satisfied the current federal mandates related to providing an education to all handicapped individuals between birth and age 21.

—Children participating in a pre-school program like Cornerstones receive services from agencies and specialists that are unavailable to public schools.

The Board, sensing that they would ultimately have to assume the responsibility for educating pre-school handicapped students, voted to write a letter of support for Cornerstones in its attempt to get a federal grant.

At their subsequent meeting of Oct. 20, there were several questions raised regarding the federal and state laws which compel public schools to educate pre-school handicapped students.

At the Board's request, I investigated the legal issues related to providing services to pre-school handicapped students and gained the following information:

—Federal law 94-142 indicates that all public schools must provide services to pre-school handicapped students aged three to five by 1978. This law, however, does not apply to states that, like Maine, specifically limit the access to public school education to students five years old or older.

—The Maine Department of Education's goal is to have legislation enacted that would require public schools to see that services

Who can help?

We can! Through the formation of a Community Food Pantry, food supplies could be made readily available to these people whenever the need arose. Everyone from the single individual to schools, businesses and organizations can get involved in getting and keeping this project going, not only in the winter months ahead but throughout the year.

How can we help? Through the collection of certain food items (see list below) which will be stored in your "Community Pantry." Volunteers will collect donations at various collection sites located at stores, businesses and churches throughout Oxford County. Donations will then be sorted and boxes of approximately $50 worth of food (enough to feed a family of four for three days) will be kept ready. When a need has been determined the food will be delivered to the family as soon as possible. The pantry will be open seven days a week.

Who can qualify? Anyone, regardless of income or family situation, who shows a need for an emergency food supply. The need will be determined by the outreach worker located at 17 itinerant sites and three Oxford County Community Services offices. (Sites to be listed in this paper soon.)

Who can you contact? If you or someone in your neighborhood may qualify you should contact any of the following: fire department, police and sheriff's department, churches, hospital, Tri-County Mental Health, Dept. of Human Services, WCCC and our OCCC Outreach workers.

If you would like to donate food please place donations in the boxes soon to be located in your local food stores, businesses and

Greenwood City

— Mrs. Colista Morgan, Corres. —
Through the years the sunny banks of our pond haven't changed much, although from hour to hour, even minute to minute it is different. Day and night have followed one another, and sun and rain and wind. Now it's autumn again, which has followed the ice pellets and snow then the crowded spring and summer.

This was a dawn when the eastern horizon was clear, brittle, sharp against the blue intensity of the ponds. A west wind started to pull at a few clinging leaves, just persuasively enough to rustle them. The faint glow of the rising sun turned the water out front, the color of a wild rose. Flying in above it, came the jays and then stopped at the feeder.

As the day held sunny after lunch, I went for a walk. When I started out, the sky was an intense blue and lofty clouds streamed lazily from northwest to southeast on a balmy breeze. Across the pond I could hear a tractor working steadily and unrelentingly.

All along the way the leaves had begun to go back, whence they came, to the earth. They had had their season in the sun and their colorful stage, but a moment in the tree's life. Each autumn we enjoy their color and think them priceless, as we do the sunsets, the bird songs, butterflies, and moonlight.

I cut left up a steep incline to the ledges to view the ponds once more before the waters are frozen. How clear and blue they were!

How quiet it was up here after the sounds of summer. No bird calls, no chatter of chipmunks, and no insects to hum. There was quiet but not silence for there were earth sounds and the rustle of leaves.

I lingered here for some time because of this spot I never tire. The milkweeds by the pond's edge were sending out streams of silk, which shimmered in all directions. The ripe grass in all places needed to be brushed and combed.

Little maple keys were sprinkled here and there where they had spiraled down, bringing a fat seed. If conditions are favorable, a seedling will sprout next spring.

Now that the leaves are gone I could see the hills, the valley, the ledges in their true contours and dimensions.

Pines pierced the sky over Patch Mountain and on other hills, the wind whispered in hushed tones, the rock, where I sat, wore moss of emerald green.

I went up through the forest to find the Spring Road leading home. The floor was littered with dead twigs and branches. Tan needles proved that pines, too, shed in fall. Oaks stood tough and leaves leathery, while beneath them, empty cups, like tiny chalices had separated from the acorns.

In a short time I was home. Then came the November twilight. It seemed to pause on the hilltop then was gone.

Dusk crept in, sunset, evening darkness, then the stars forcing my eyes to look upward.

TELSTAR ATHLETIC BOOSTERS HOLD MEETING

The Telstar Athletic Boosters met recently in the library at Telstar Regional High School. After reports were read and accepted some time was spent discussing goals and objectives. The immediate goals of the Boosters are to assist the Athletic Department in maintaining the present sports program and to support the physical education programs in all S. A. D. 44 schools.

A letter was read from Peter Brown, Athletic Director at Telstar High/Middle School, in thanks for the "Gatorade" the Boosters purchased for the 1980-81 year.

It was voted to order "Rebel Power" bumper stickers and obtain a sample packet which the Boosters will be taking orders for. John Chase received the load of hardwood donated by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Myshraill.

Telstar duffel bags and caps are available at the Brass Buckle in Bethel and Akers Store in Andover.

The next meeting will be Wednesday evening, Nov. 19, at 7:30 in the Telstar Library.

Northwest Bethel

— Clarice Gibson, Corres. —
Sunday morning on looking out the window, I was given a sunrise spectacular. The sky was a fiery hue which was once again reflected in the waters and all around it was a slate color. As I looked the red hue streamed out from both sides and ran into the slate colors giving an awe-inspiring sky. We have had ever since Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, spells of spitting snow, which have had no accumulation, but have kept our skies overcast and cold. Once in a while we have had a glimpse of blue.

Today is Armistice Day. The day to end all wars. If only our leaders can keep us out of another war. With all of our sophisticated weapons—could we come out of another war?

Ira called up and Nov. 10 is the birthday of our Marine Corps. This day is always a special day for Marines and they are always given a feed on that day. From what the boys have told me, I believe this, it's even better than Thanksgiving.

Mildred Tyler has just come home from the hospital from knee surgery and her granddaughter, Macki Chapman, has been visiting her. Anyone wishing to write, her address is, Cold Water Brook Road, Norway, Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Benson had a poker party at their place Saturday night. Joan Coolidge, Tootsie Sciaraffa, Margaret Belanger and Marie Swan came.

Sylvia Benson reported that a pair of cardinals are coming to her feeder each day.

This morning I was surprised to see ducks on the river. These were the first I had seen since duck hunting season came on.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hammon and girls spent the week end in Vermont visiting college friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Brown spent Saturday in Lewiston with their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rotroff.

A week ago Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gibbs and Heather entertained his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Gibbs.

Wednesday, Linda Gibbs and Heather went Christmas shopping in Lewiston with Mr. and Mrs. Guy Gibbs.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Murphy went to the banquet at Town and Country, Gorham, N. H. This was for the employees of Pike Industries.

Friday, Pat Anderson, two boys, and Mildred Merrill went to Rumford Theatre to see the movie "Jesus" and then went to Goodwin's for ice cream.

Autumn
Summer now is ended, Autumn time is here. Leaves are yellow, red and gold. Meadows brown and serene. Goldenrod and asters.

Purple grapes hang on the vines. Apples in the orchard. To the ground they fall. Blackbirds in the treetops, Giving their last call.

Frost is in the lowlands. Where there once was dew. Autumn now is here again. Summertime is through. Red sunsets by the roadside. Corn is turning brown.

"BACK TO SCHOOL NIGHT" AT TELSTAR MIDDLE SCHOOL THURSDAY, NOV. 20

The Telstar Middle School staff welcomes all parents to the annual "Back to School Night" on Thursday, Nov. 20, from 7 p. m. to 9:30 p. m.

The program will begin at 7 p. m. in the auditorium with a presentation by the Middle School Drama Club, "Where Is That Report Card?", directed by Miss June Henry.

Following the play, parents will follow a schedule similar to their youngsters. Teachers will present to parents their course program and discuss their goals and objectives for their subject.

Achievement Test results from last spring's testing will be distributed to parents during the homeroom period.

Following the scheduled classes, staff members will be available for individual questions over refreshments in the cafeteria.

Students will take home parent schedules on Wednesday, Nov. 19. Parents should take these with them on Thursday evening. Schedules may also be obtained at the Middle School Office.

FROM THE TOWN OFFICE

continued from Page One of Bethel during normal office hours and a receipt of such payment shall be presented to the person or shelter where the dog is impounded for inspection.

The Manager reviewed the October financial statement with the Board and indicated that most accounts are in good shape, but that a couple of accounts might need minor adjustments due to unforeseen price increases and unanticipated costs.

A letter from the Greater Bethel Chamber of Commerce was read which informed the board of an upcoming Christmas tree lighting ceremony and parade on Friday, Dec. 12. It requested the use of snow fence to encircle the tree and police help on Main Street during the parade. The Manager was authorized to work out the details.

The Manager reviewed the status of 1980 special projects and the Board and Manager spent considerable time in discussing requested projects and programs for 1981 in preparation for the 1981 budget process which will be starting in December.

The next meeting of the Selectmen will be Monday evening, Nov. 24, at 7 o'clock in the Savings Bank meeting room. The Board of Assessors will meet Monday evening, Nov. 17 at the Town Office.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY RECALLS BETHEL DURING WORLD WAR II

continued from Page One sunk by enemy action. This brought the reality of war home to Bethel and as the United States entered the war the effects became more obvious on the small town. Scrap metal drives were held and in the fall of 1942, 258 tons of metal was collected to aid the war effort. A neighborhood plan was organized and bond sales raised money to aid in the defeat of the Axis powers (Germany, Italy and Japan).

Several Bethel sons lost their lives and the Citizens followed the activities of all its men and women in the service. The newspaper published a special edition for those overseas. Gas rationing came to Bethel in May of 1942, one of the results being the cancellation of the entire winter sports program at Gould for that year. An observation post was established on Paradise Hill which was manned day and night by Bethel men and women with any aircraft sighted reported to a regional center. Newsreels at the Bethel Theater (now the Thunderbird Motel site) brought home to the people what their sons and daughters were facing overseas.

The period was one of great patriotic fervor and in Howe's view the people of Bethel were not found lacking in support of the nation's war effort.

Howe ended his presentation with the singing by all those present, accompanied by Arlene G. Brown on the piano, a song "Bell Bottom Trousers" popular during World War II.

During the business portion of the meeting Vice President Donald G. Bennett called attention to the presence of a piano which has been loaned to the Society by member Catherine Lyon Bush. Mr. Bennett indicated that this would be put to good use with increased use of music at Society meetings and affairs.

Bennett also announced the artifact of the month was a Frost genealogy, the gift of Alonzo Chapman of San Antonio, Fla. The Frost family was an important early Bethel family. He also announced the addition of a new product to the Society's growing line of goods. This was a canvas wood carrier with the museum's logo on the side. This item is now on

SPECIAL MEETING OF BETHEL WATER DISTRICT HELD NOV. 3

The Bethel Water District held a special meeting on Nov. 3 at the Bethel Savings Bank. The purpose of the meeting was to offer Water District customers an opportunity to meet with the trustees and superintendent and ask questions or make suggestions.

Although only one customer attended the meeting, the questions that were asked were very good and may be of interest to others. The following are some of the concerns brought to the District's attention, other questions were raised and will be brought up in next week's paper:

1) Is the Water District a municipal department or a separate agency?

The Bethel Water District began as a private Water Company in 1890, in 1967 by Act of Legislature (and vote of the town of Bethel) the Company became the Bethel Water District, a quasi-municipality, a public utility separate from the local town government, regulated by the Public Utilities Commission and the Department of Human Services.

2) Why was the Water District located at the Town Office?

At the time that the District was created the Town Office was apparently the best place to house its records and bookkeeping. The District contracted with the town for bookkeeping service. Over the last 10 years, the District has increasingly needed secure storage space and heated facilities for water test equipment it was necessary to keep a separate building. Now that the Water District has its own office on Philbrook Street it is less costly and more efficient to consolidate all its operations at one location.

3) Why are bills paid in advance?

The reason for advanced billing is to have operating funds coming in to pay salaries and buy supplies while customers are using the water for which they are being charged. Water bills are sent on a quarterly basis: Jan. 15, April 15, July 15, and Oct. 15 under the existing tariff as established by the P. U. C. Customers are billed in advance.

If you have any questions or suggestions please feel free to stop by the Philbrook Street Office or call 824-2242.

FIVE-DAY STOP SMOKING CLINIC STARTS NOV. 16 AT STEPHENS HOSPITAL

A 5-day Stop Smoking Clinic will be offered by the Health Education Department of Stephens Memorial Hospital starting Nov. 16 and ending with a special community "Healthy Living" program on Great American Smokeout Day on Nov. 20.

The program will be offered from 7-9 p. m. each evening and will include group discussions, guest speakers and films. "The Decision Is Yours—Love Yourself Enough to Quit" is the theme adopted locally for observance of GAS. It is hoped many smokers will be motivated to make the decision to stop for good during Smokeout Week 1980 and begin by calling SMH's Health Ed. Department at 743-5933, ext. 491 to register for the clinic.

A call was made for anyone wishing to serve on a committee to speak to the Society Director.

Vice President Bennett presented a life membership certificate to Olive A. Head of West Bethel and expressed appreciation for her generosity and support.

It was announced that the December meeting will again feature the annual Christmas program. This year, slides will be shown which were taken during the Director's participation in the Seminar in Historical Administration held this past summer at Colonial Williamsburg.

A social hour and refreshments followed the program.

"WHY PEOPLE SMOKE?" LECTURE ON NOV. 20 AT STEPHENS MEMORIAL

The program is part of the SMH Health Living lecture series offered to the public without charge. The staff of SMH Health Education Department is offering this program hoping to help smokers who want to quit but so far have been unsuccessful.

Research indicates that once people understand why they smoke they are better able to choose the best way to successfully stop smoking. Like any addiction dependency on nicotine from cigarettes is very complicated and not easily cured. The question for smokers is not whether to quit but how. "The decision is yours . . . love yourself enough to quit" . . . is the local theme for Smokeout '80.

On Nov. 9, the West Parish Congregational Church announced preparations for its annual stewardship campaign. This year the campaign which is under the direction of Finance Committee Chairman Sumner Burgess, will attempt to conduct a 100% canvass of church members and friends. VISIT POLLS — The students of Locke Mills School visited at the polls in Greenwood on Election Day, Nov. 4. They were greeted by Mrs. Phyllis Coolidge, Town Clerk, and observed the voting process as Mrs. Salway cast her vote Tuesday morning. At the school, the children held their own election at their polls. Shannon Cross was the ballot clerk, and each child cast a vote by secret ballot. Even though the results did not match that of the nation, the children were enthusiastic and proud to be Americans who can participate in such an activity. The results: Jimmy Carter, 16; Ronald Reagan, 15; John Anderson, 2.
